VSO Software Newsletter n°21
March 2013
In this issue:
- What's new?
- Did you know?

What's new?

-New Batch converter
ConvertXtoDVD is happy to announce the birth of a baby brother: the batch converter. The batcher allows you to set large numbers of conversions to work "in batch", i.e. automatically one after the other. This tool was developed by a third party in earlier versions of the software, but for V5, we developed our own.

- You can make your ConvertXtoDVD speak like Vador, the Simpsons or your favorite character!
What's up, Doc? Not many people know this, but the voice notifications like "operation complete" that come with ConvertXtoDVD can be customized. You can replace them by any sound file of your own. To make things easier for you, we've compiled a selection of famous sentences from Lord Vader, Bugs Bunny, Homer Simpson, the Monty Pythons, in our forum, along with a guide on how to integrate them into the program. May the force be with you!

- ConvertXtoDVD 5: great feedback!
Since its official release a few months ago, ConvertXtoDVD 5 has been receiving a very positive welcome: read the reviews made by two established IT websites: Tipradar and Ghacks.

Did you know?

- How to set update notifications
To make sure you never miss a new version, or if you don't want to be bothered with pop-ups checking if a new version is available, you can customize the update notifications. In ConvertXtoDVD, go to "Help" "Check for updates" then click on "Change update settings": there you can select the frequency of the warnings: on every use, every week or every month.

If you want to contact us please use support form or our Facebook and Twitter accounts.
Bye for now!
The VSO Software Team